The Honey Designers

Mark Müller and Christopher Wright have known each other for years with great appreciation and admiration each other's work. Their collaboration on the Honey collection brought a complementary and multi-disciplinary approach with a focus on biophilic design to create attractive spaces that reduce stress and enhance mental wellness.

Honey's space-efficient 120° planning grid creates a flowing geometry that meanders through a room with endless possibilities for configuring a workspace. The form is soft and rounded with curved compound surfaces featuring a 55" panel height giving the right amount of visual and sound privacy without overwhelming the space. The beautiful design elements and attention to every detail offers unparalleled versatility in meeting the demands of today's office and the future.

Whether your needs are centered on open and closed collaborative zones, casual meeting spaces, lounge, or desking in sitting, standing, or height-adjustable Honey adapts to individual users' needs, varied work styles, privacy, and well-being.
