

ERA

DeskMakers

A new language for the private office.

Work is rarely one note. Some days demand focus, others flexibility. ERA was designed to meet those shifts with ease, blending sculptural design with everyday performance. Its height-adjustable desks bring motion into the private office, offering comfort and choice without compromising style. Every curve, edge, and finish was shaped with intention, creating a workspace that feels as modern as it looks.

Designed with intention. Built for today, ready for tomorrow.

The private office should reflect the people who use it: warm, modern, and adaptable. ERA was created with that in mind, bringing sculptural design and thoughtful function into one cohesive collection. Desks, credenzas, and wardrobes share the same refined details, balancing performance with a modern sensibility.

Low storage doubles as seating, wardrobes add refinement with full-length mirrors, and wall panels invite personalization through shelving and finishes. Every piece works together to create a private office that feels unified, functional, and distinctly personal.

Storage that adapts to you.

The ERA collection considers every part of the private office, right down to storage. Low credenzas offer a place for technology to stay organized, with wire access and thoughtful cutouts that keep the look clean. Optional cushions turn the surface into an extra seat, inviting collaboration without clutter.

For more personal needs, wardrobes bring height and versatility, with fixed shelving, hidden access for power, and a full-length mirror inside the door. Whether it's files, daily essentials, or a moment to check your reflection before the next meeting, ERA's storage solutions balance function with refinement, making the office feel complete.

Made for the rhythm of work.

Each day has its own tempo: focus in the morning, collaboration in the afternoon, reflection before the day is done. ERA moves with you, offering height-adjustable comfort, thoughtful storage, and a design language that makes every shift feel natural. A private office that works the way you do.

An ERA for every office.

Not every space calls for a full suite, and that's the beauty of ERA. Even in its smaller configurations, the collection carries the same sculptural curves, refined details, and height-adjustable comfort that define the line. Without wall panels, the design feels open and flexible, perfect for compact offices or places where simplicity matters. Big or small, ERA adapts to the needs of the workplace while always maintaining its modern warmth and distinctive character.
